Confirmation of Negative Pregnancy Test Results

Because the risk from MRI to a fetus is yet unknown, all female subjects are required to take a pregnancy test the day of the MRI and confirm that the results were negative. Please check the box next to the statement below that reflects how you took your pregnancy test today.

☐ I received an over-the-counter pregnancy test from the researchers to administer today at home (the day of the MRI), with recommendation to follow directions on the kit.

OR

☐ I self-administered a pregnancy test in private, in the bathroom, after coming in to the research lab today.

You must be excluded from the study if a pregnancy test result is positive or if you think you might be pregnant. Please sign this form to confirm that you took a pregnancy test today (at home or at the lab) and the results were negative.
